

Parallel Parliament

Political intelligence. Intelligently delivered.

Who we are

In February 2019, Calum was sat on an East Midlands train to Nottingham, writing a list of all the things the ideal Parliamentary website should have.

Why not:

- Make it clear which APPGs MPs are part of?
- Arrange Bills by the stage they are at in Parliament?
- Link Hansard speeches directly to the original video source?
- Track petition signatures over time and forecast how many signatures they might receive?
- Have a homepage highlighting new, upcoming and trending events?
- Make Parliamentary activity structured and searchable by Government Department?

They were simple ideas, that came from a bigger frustration: finding out what Parliament was doing was far harder than it should have been. The information existed, but wasn't linked, organised or presented in a way that made it easy to answer the questions people wanted answered. The tools available did not address the problems people actually had.

By May 2019, Parallel Parliament was live and the first users had registered. By 2023, the site had won awards for its approach to parliamentary information, while more than 4,000 emails were being sent each day to thousands of users.

What came after is a journey of innovation driven by a simple idea: make information accessible to everyone, not just those with the time or resources to dig for it. We believe information should be accessible, relevant, affordable and at your fingertips the moment it's needed.

That philosophy shapes Parallel Parliament today. We continually look for ways to connect information, add context and make Parliament easier to understand and navigate - whether that's highlighting Bill amendments with an integrated viewer, providing Excel friendly data on MPs, providing live and attributed transcripts across all Parliamentary hearings or more light-hearted applications like our Faces of Parliament game.

That's why MPs, councils, charities, trade bodies and law firms rely on Parallel Parliament. We're not another layer between you and the information, and we're not a consultancy charging to tell you what already happened.

"It's really clever, really powerful - genuinely amazing. It's so much easier than trying to dig through the Parliament website. It takes everything that's out there scattered across different sources and puts it in one place where we can actually use it."

What we do

One platform. Six powerful tools

All integrated across one platform

All of our data feeds into six core products: the Bill Amendment Viewer, which consolidates amendments into live legislation as a Bill progresses; Live Transcription, covering debates and committee sessions in real time; Stakeholder Intelligence, identifying every MP, Peer, committee, and department tied to an issue; Datasets, giving you raw, filtered data on demand; Alerts and Calendars, keeping you notified the moment something changes; and full Devolved and Departmental Coverage across Westminster, Holyrood, and the Senedd.

"We find your platform incredibly helpful - keeping track of bills is such a pain, and this saves us time and makes it so much easier."

Why Parallel Parliament

We're built different

Legacy political monitoring providers were established on a manual and people-led approach to information. The service provided often raises a simple question: are you hiring the platform, or the consultant? Pricing, data quality and services are deliberately opaque and hard to compare.

Parallel Parliament is built differently: tech-first from the ground up. Every debate, document, question and committee session flows into one connected, structured system providing for speed and continuous innovation. No opaque packages or hidden differences, our pricing, services and data are transparent to every client.

Customer Driven Innovation

Some of our most valuable innovations have come directly from our users needs:

- Pharmaceutical users needed to monitor NICE and NHS England. We added both within a week.
- Financial users needed to monitor the FCA. It was added within the week.
- Legal users needed to view amendments in the context of legislation. We built the Bill Amendment Viewer
- Advocacy organisations needed to know which postcode is represented by which MP. We built a spreadsheet that can be used by anybody.

Our customers shape our roadmap. Tell us what you need.

Who we help

Law Firms

Track legislation, amendments, and committee activity relevant to your clients. Get alerts the moment a Bill moves, so your advice is always current and your team never scrambles to catch up.

Trade Organisations

Monitor the issues your members care about across both Houses. Surface relevant debates, questions, and consultations without manually checking multiple sources every day.

Charities & Public Interest

Stay on top of policy developments that affect your cause. Identify supportive parliamentarians, track petition progress, and respond to legislative changes before they become law.

Councils & Public Sector

Keep pace with central government activity that impacts local delivery. Follow departmental announcements, funding debates, and regulatory changes in real time.

"I used to lose half a day a week tracking amendments across bills. Now it takes minutes."
